

ALL: So, there they go,
Perfect hill, we agree,
On a sled that's a bell for the Christmas tree!

NARRATOR: It was so much fun, they decided to climb
And sled down the hill one more time.

(Draw long Wing Line D on opposite side of angel)

READER: Then the first little mouse found a second hill.
They slid over and over...

(Draw shorter Wing Line E, just inside Wing Line D)

READER: Then they took a spill and both cried:

ALL: STOP!

READER: And they giggled out loud.

READER: Then one mouse noticed a dark storm cloud.

(Draw Cloud Shape F in angel's hair area).

READER: They watched as the cloud settled high on the sun.

READER: And they hardly noticed a storm had begun.

(Draw Sun Shape G under the cloud hair)

ALL: So, a cloud-covered sun,
Perfect cloud, we agree,
But what has this to do with a Christmas tree?

NARRATOR: Then it started to snow, started to blow.
The growing snow grew and covered each toe.
First mouse cried:

ALL: STOP!

MOUSE 1: Here's a thought:
If we don't find shelter, we might get caught
Outside here in a terrible blizzard!

MOUSE 2: Now everyone knows I'm no wise wizard,
But maybe it's warm there under the bell.
We could hide from the storm and that would be swell.

(Draw Nose Shapes H and I sticking out from under the bell skirt to look like angel shoes)

ALL: So, that's where they hid,
Perfect place, we agree.
Only their noses stick out, you see?

NARRATOR: STOP! (Pause)
Something's not right, missing you know.

READER: Look, the bell seems to shimmer and glow!

(SUGGESTION: You might quickly use a silver or gold marker here to put some glitter on the angle's dress and wings).

READER: And somehow, mysteriously, out of the sky

READER: A new shape appears, floats down from on high.

READER: It finds the right place, with a jingle and jangle.

(Draw Halo Shape J at a slight tilt above hair. Here again you might use a marker pen to add shimmer to the halo).

READER: It tilts to the side at just the right angle.

NARRATOR: And what's this?

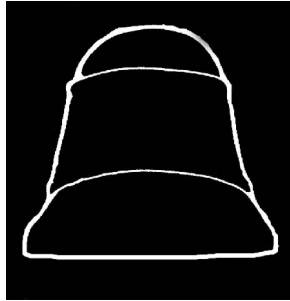

ALL: An angel!

NARRATOR: It's plain as can be,
A wonderful treasure for both you and me.

ALL: So that's how we end,
Perfect end, we agree,
With a treasure to top off our *Christmas tree!
